Keel Plan

The Hindenburg was huge, so we broke this up into colour coded sections, plus the control gondola. A Keel Corridor runs the length of the airship.

Areas with significant outside views have maps for

- Flying day
- Flying night
- Landed

Yellow A Deck

This deck is for the passengers. Luxurious lounge, dining, and reading rooms contradict the spartan bunks used for sleeping. Massive glass windows allow for exceptional viewing. Two staircases go down to B Deck. The only crew space on this deck is a small servers pantry with a dumbwaiter to the kitchen.

VTT Settings: (each unit is 70 pixels)
Page Size: 19 units wide by 30 units high
Scale: 1 unit = 1 m (or 3 ft.)

Yellow B Deck

This deck has shower and lavatory for passengers, a pressurized smoking room (lighting up was no safe on a Zeppelin) plus a bar. For the crew there is a kitchen, officer's mess, crew mess, plus the Purser's cabin (the only way for crew to enter the passenger areas). Stairs lead up to A Deck and down for passenger loading. The Keel Corridor runs through this deck.

Control Gondola

The control gondola hangs below the airship and is accessible by a hatch and ladder in the radio room in the Command Crew Section. There are two massive wheels to control pitch and rudder, plus a smaller dial to control gas. You also find a navigation room.

Aqua Cabin Crew Section

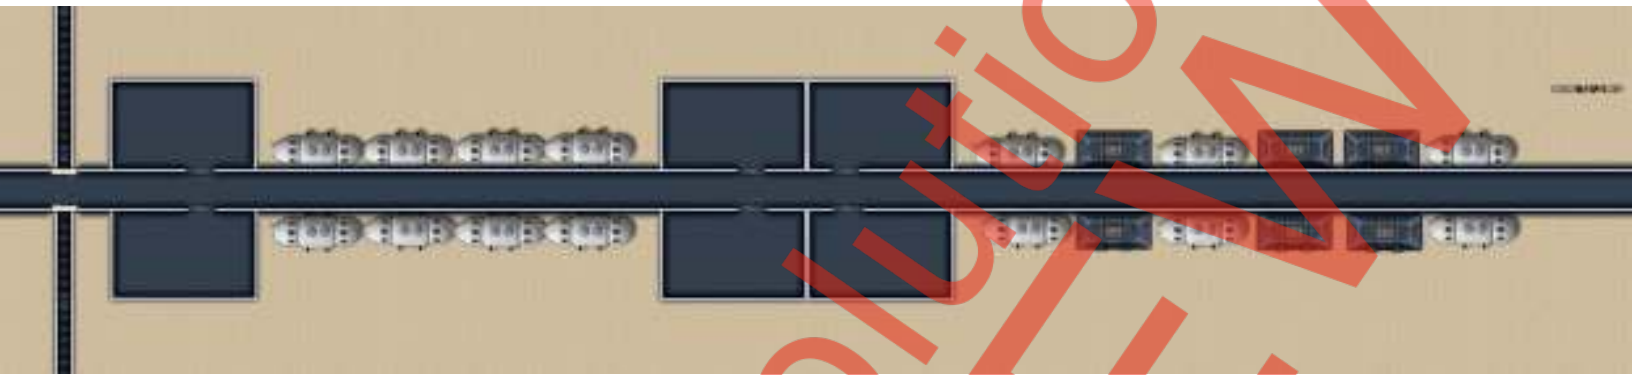

Crew bunks, four storage rooms, and four massive diesel engines that power the ship can be found in this section. Also, emergency crawl ways to the engine car.

Cramped and dirty the four engine cars hold the massive propellers. Typically these are only accessed when the zeppelin is landed through a hatch on the side. But in an emergency a crawl way up to the Keel Corridor can be used.
